The Dog and the Wolf

Aesop's Fables

A gaunt wolf was almost dead with hunger when he happened to meet a House-dog who was passing by. "Ah, Cousin," said the dog. "I knew how it would be; your irregular life will soon be the ruin of you. Why do you not work steadily as I do, and get your food regularly given to you?" "I would have no objection," said the wolf, "if I could only get a place." "I will easily arrange that for you," said the dog; "come with me to my master and you shall share my work."

So the wolf and the dog went towards the town together. On the way there the wolf noticed that the hair on a certain part of the dog's neck was very much worn away, so he asked him how that had come about.

"Oh, it is nothing," said the dog. "That is only the place where the collar is put on at night to keep me chained up; it chafes a bit, but one soon gets used to it." "Is that all?" said the wolf. "Then good-bye to you, Master dog." Better starve free than be a fat slave.

- Interviewer: What's happening in the school right now? It's 10 a.m. but most children are not in their classrooms like in traditional schools. What are they doing?
- Teacher: Well, some are playing basketball or riding their bikes. Most of them love sport. Some are developing pictures in the photo lab. Others are talking about last weekend or discussing politics. Some of them are studying traditional subjects, like biology or maths. In this way, they are learning how to work with other people and how to organize their learning.
- Interviewer: Who runs the school?
- Teacher: We all do. We meet once a week at the School Meeting and we make all the important decisions. Each student and each teacher has one vote.
- Interviewer: What is life like at the school?
- Student: Well, it's a challenge but I love it because I decide what I learn and who teaches me. I think we learn most from conversations with other people. At the moment we're reading a lot about the Middle Ages because we're preparing a play about the history.
